ARE YOU SHOOTING YOURSELF IN THE FOOT?

Below is a most important maxim of the common law:

Rei turpis nullum mandatum est.

- A mandate of an illegal thing is void. Dig. 17, 1, 6, 3.

That common law maxim may be applied as:

- Was the 14th Amendment lawfully ratified? The answer: NO.
- Were the 14th Amendment state constitutions forced? The answer: YES.
- Were the new “states” instituted by a democratic process? The answer: NO.

So, is not using/arguing the special and private law of the “14th Amendment States”¹ and the United States bringing a *legal fiction*² into such “law” having validity as law?

So, the question is: Have you denounced the political system that is established under the Fourteenth Amendment by properly using all law to your advantage?

THE FINAL QUESTION

Are you shooting yourself in the foot?

2 NOTE: A “Legal Fiction” is also referred to as a “presumption”. See this authority: "A presumption is a deduction which the law expressly directs to be made from particular facts." (Code Civ. Proc., sec. 1959 [Note: now Evidence Code, § 600.]) And "a presumption (unless declared by law to be conclusive) may be controverted by other evidence, direct or indirect: but unless controverted, the jury is bound to find according to the presumption." (Code Civ. Proc., sec. 1961 [Note: now Evid. Cd, § 602 et seq.]) (bracketed information added.) In re Bauer (1889), 79 Cal. 304, 307.
